ELVENTH YEAR.

NUMBER 16

LOUIS LANDRAM, Publisher.

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1900.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

LANCASTER AND VICINITY.

Visit Joe Nicklass' shaving parlor.
Buy Banner Bread, fresh every day, at Blue Grass Grocery.

For all kind of repairing of Buggy, Pheaton, etc., go to Conn's Carriage shop.

If you are in need of furniture go to J. A. Beazley's where you can get the best goods for the least money.

See our hot weather clothing, serge coats and vests, crash suits at low prices.
LOGAN & ROBINSON.

On Monday a large crowd of people were seen rushing in the grocery store of Gaines & Ball to take advantage of their low price on goods.

Court Day.

About half the average crowd was in town Monday and no great amount of business was transacted. Some farmers are busy in their meadows and threshing wheat.

Hustonsville Fair.

President James P. Harper, and treasurer J. H. Hoeker, of the Hustonville Fair, were here advertising on Monday. The Fair will be held on August 1, 2 and 3.

The Old Wheel Horse.

During our absence, Judge M. D.
Hughes was at the helm in THE REC-ORD office, and this issue is the fruits of his skilled hand and big brain. It will be remembered that the last time we left him in charge, he kicked up a time or two and ran into the democratic camp. This time a brick was tied to the tail of the old wheel horse so he could not get it over the lines and scare again.

A Worthy Minister.

Eld. A. R. Moore, a native of Bourbon county, who is preaching at Memphis, preached at the Christian church on Sunday, and his logic, oratory and attractive manner captivated the entire congregation. All are so well pleased that it is almost certain that he will be called as pastor of that church. The members are congratulating themselves on the prospects of securing such an able minister. During his stay here he was entertained by Mr. H. A. B. Marksberry.

Visit Joe Nicklass' shaving parlor.
Go to J. A. Beazley for a new and beautiful line of wall paper.

Nice, eight-room cottage for rent.
For terms apply to G. S. Gaines or J.
M. Logan.

Thanks.

This office is thankful to Mrs. G. T.
Farris for a basket of fine apples.

Meat will bring the highest price of the year if brought to us this week.
Gaines & Ball.

We will guarantee our prices to be as low on first-class groceries as any other firm in Lancaster.
Gaines & Ball.

Married.

At the home of the bride's father, Jerome Layton, Mr. Caleb Johnson and Miss Lucinda Layton were married on the 18th, by Rev. T. H. Campbell, assisted by Rev. R. A. Thomson.

Teachers Examinations.

The examination of white teachers will be held in Miss Lusk's office July 29 and 31. That for colored teachers will be held at same place July 27 and 28.

Two car loads of Buggies, Surries, Pheatons and Road-Wagons, go at a sacrifice. Now is the best chance ever offered in Lancaster for a bargain.
W. J. ROMANS.

Buggy Shopping.

Ed Bishop is thankful to the lady who called him from the store to her buggy and asked for a spool of thread, handing him the money at the same time. They generally hand the money to be changed, after goods are brought out, thus causing an extra trip.

Big Times at Nicholasville

The Street Fair to be held in Nicholasville next Wednesday and Thursday will be one of the most enjoyable entertainments held in Central Kentucky this summer. The good people of our neighboring city have labored unceasingly in perfecting arrangements, and all who attend are assured a most pleasant time. Nicholasville never does things by halves, and her reputation for hospitality will be fully substantiated.

WHAT OTHERS THINK OF IT.

A Few Clippings From Exchanges, Regarding the Proposed Rail Road Through
Garrard.

(Courier-Journal.)

The report that the Southern railway will undertake the construction of a branch from Burgin to Jellico is distinctly encouraging, as hope in that matter was at a low ebb a few months ago. The proposed line is to be 115 miles in length and would call for the expenditure of over $2,000,000 so it is a considerable item to the industries of the State. What is of more importance is that the example of the Southern in this building is encouragement to hope for similar enterprises elsewhere in Kentucky.

Ordinarily speaking, there are few States which offer so inviting a field for railroad building as Kentucky, but scarcely anything has been done in this line for a number of years. The world-wide demand for coal and iron calls particular attention to our vast mineral resources. Coal is to be found by millions of tons in measures that have as yet been untouched, and iron ore is equally accessible and cheap.
The timber resources of the State are also of enormous value if only means of transportation to market can be found. In the section through which the projected Southern branch is to run there is particular abundance of both mineral and timber wealth.

Doubtless the fact that there has been so little railroad building projected in Kentucky this year is because of fears that capital will not be welcomed and may suffer from arbitrary laws. The lawlessness witnessed at Frankfort has also had a deterrent effect. Yet in spite of what has been exaggerated and distorted it can be truthfully said that capital and enterprise are as safe in Kentucky as in any other State in the Union. Legislation has never assumed the extremely restrictive form that has characterized many States in the South and West. Our labor laws are liberal and our taxes, after all, are below the average.

We can enable any railroad or any manufacturer that comes to Kentucky to make money, and we will protect their persons and property in spite of all the wild romances of yellow journalists and the vapors of demagogues. The Southern railway is wise in following the example of the Illinois Central and Big Four, which have spent vast sums here for which they are receiving large returns. Other roads and enterprises will profit by recognizing this.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

Mr. G. L. Prescott, a capitalist of London, England, is at the Grand.
"I have just returned here from a trip to the Kentucky mountain counties of Pulaski and Laurel, where I have 7,000 acres of fine timber and coal lands," said Mr. Prescott, "and sail for England next Wednesday, I married in Wisconsin, and was in that state when I started for Kentucky.
"What? You are not going to go to Kentucky? They will shoot you!" What nonsense. A man is just as safe there as anywhere in the world if he attends to his own business, and I never hear of an outsider being molested or harmed. About all they hear up north of the state is somebody being shot. I bought the lands I referred to seven years ago, and have been all over the mountains, and was always treated with the greatest kindness. I never thought of carrying a revolver, but did carry a roll of money without fear of being robbed. The state has a name it does not deserve.
It is one of the greatest states in the Union if it had a chance.

(Lexington Herald.)

There is considerable talk in the mountains concerning the railroad which the Southern Railway intends building from Burgin, Ky., to Jellico, Tenn., to connect with its Knoxville-Jellico branch, formerly the property of the Louisville & Nashville railway.
It is the general opinion that the Burgin-Jellico link will be built, as rights-of-way have been secured. The road will go from Burgin to the Rockcastle river down to the Cumberland river.
When the road strikes Williamsburg Whitley county, it will turn off in a straight line south to Jellico, twenty miles distant. This road will be built perce some of the richest sections of timber and coal in the South. It will be of inestimable benefit to the Kentucky mountains and means thousands of dollars to the mountain people.

There is land rich in timber and coal in the mountains which cannot be operated because of no transportation facilities.

(Courier-Journal.)

The Board of Directors of the Commercial Club met yesterday afternoon and named the standing committees for the ensuing year and discussed some important questions, chief among them the projected extension of the Southern railway from Burgin thro' Garrard county and Lancaster to Jellico, there to connect with the Cincinnati Southern railway. The right-of-way can be secured for $50,000, and as $25,000 has been pledged the club believes citizens of Louisville should see that the remainder is raised. The club is confident the new road would be of great advantage to the merchants in bringing to Louisville trade that now goes to Cincinnati.

The published statement that the Louisville Commercial Club had donated $50,000 toward the completion of a branch line of the Southern Railway at Jellico, is denied by the Commercial Club officials. The fact of the matter is that a committee some weeks ago came to Louisville for the purpose of securing assistance in the project, which, though heartily indorsed by the club, was not contributed to in a financial way. The proposition as originally made was that the property owners contribute $25,000 to the completion of the branch, in order to secure a right-of-way, and the Louisville Commercial Club to contribute a like amount.

THE KENTUCKY PRESS.

The Newspaper Boys Meet in Louisville, are Royally Entertained and Have a Big Time.

The editor of THE RECORD had the pleasure of attending the meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Louisville Monday and Tuesday. The objects of the organization are the same as those of all other business associations, viz: to discuss our interests, be drawn more closely together socially and spend a time in sight-seeing and rest. So far as the latter two points are concerned, we were deprived of those pleasures, save the cordial and handsome entertainment received in Louisville. The editors take an annual trip to some northern resort and spend a week or ten days recuperating and preparing for the long year's work they will have to do before they get another breathing spell. Many people think they think that publishing a paper is easily done, the work light and all is one sweet dream. But in this they are sadly mistaken. There is no business where one is more closely confined, does more hard work or receives less thanks for favors than in a country office. A fellow may rake his brain with a fine tooth comb trying to find something good to say, and nine times in ten the one "boosted" will never so much as say "much obliged." Every fellow knows how the paper should be run, but they are not willing to undertake the job. Some day, when we editors get rich, we will have certain hours to open our place of business, close promptly at a certain time and when a man wants to patronize us, we will "accommodate" him. But to gaze upon the happy set of gentlemen at Louisville, one would judge each to own, fee simple, a brown-stone front, twenty stories high and enough meal, flour and cord wood to run him the balance of his natural life.

Business meetings were held Monday and Tuesday, during which a splendid paper was read by my friend, Count Giovannoli, of the Danville Advocate. Other papers and speeches added to the occasion. Col. R. W.
Brown, of the Louisville Times, was elected president and Harry McCarty, of the Nicholasville Journal, vice-president. Bob Morningstar, who Col.
Cradock says was secretary when he (Cradock) was a little boy, was re-elected secretary. The boys, about 150 strong, left Tuesday night for a trip through the north-west.

The association has never been more royally entertained than they were by the Louisville newspaper men, the Commercial Club and Board of Trade.
A banquet fit for ye gods was spread at the beautiful Fountain Ferry Park Monday night. Col. Brown presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by Col. Belknap, Mr. Frank L.
Hartwell, J. W. Hopper, Dan E. O.
Sullivan and other gentlemen, while Miss Elvira Snyder Miller, the wife of the late lauric o' the Louisville Times, delighted us with one of the best talks we have ever had the pleasure of listening to. The banquet lasted until after midnight, when the editors adjourned to the ball room and were soon lost in the dreamy waltz, with the lovely and beautiful Louisville girls for partners. Trolly rides and numerous other entertainments made up the last days program.

The editors will long remember the handsome manner in which they were entertained at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, which Manager Pike Campbell has made one of the most popular stopping places in the South. Excellent fare, prompt service, nicely furnished rooms are among the luxuries to be had. Conveniently located, it is a most charming place to stop.

Our Mr. Farra went on the trip and when we saw him last, was having more fun than a box of monkeys.

elry for repair to J. C. Thompson.

Base Ball.

Our 2nd base ball nine beat Nicho-lasville's 1st nine on their own grounds —the score being 15 to 10, Saturday.

Judge J. C. Hemphill will come home on Saturday July 28, to meet his Building and Loan patrons, and return to the Springs that night.

In a column of write-ups of the editors, the Louisville Times says:
"LOUIS LANDRAM. Heart, as big as a barrel; always on the lookout to do some friend a good turn. Not a politician but a perpetual candidate to fill some office of hospitality to others.
Stalwart, popular about thirty-five, and with a clean Record, as the people of Lancaster will testify."

Plenty of Milk.

While in town Monday Joe Waters told us that a Lancaster physician reported to him a case without a parallel. And that is that he (the doctor) has a patient over the line in a neighboring county with a young baby and the flow of milk is so great that her own infant is not only abundantly supplied by its mother, but she also nurses a pair of colored babies and also two fine hound puppies. It is one case among ten thousand and the talk of the neighborhood. The lady is one of the best in the land, but has fine Jersey and Holstein qualifications.

Doctors' Meeting.

The session of the Central Kentucky Medical Association, held in this city last Thursday, was an interesting one. Those present were: Drs.
Bush, Herring, Acton, Wesley, Grant, Evans and Kinnaird, of Lancaster; Elliott and Traylor, of Nicholasville; Carpenter, Stanford, Pittman, Parkville; Casenbarg, Paint Lick and Dr. Bertie Carpenter, of Hustonsville. Dr. Eliott read a paper on "Gastro Enteritis," Dr. Carpenter one on "Spinal Deformities" and Dr. Wesley reported on recent progress in Materia Medica and Therapeutics. All papers were ably discussed. The next meeting will be in Danville, and Dr. Steele Bailey will read a paper on "Diabetes." Dr. Traylor acted as president and Dr. Kinnaird, as secretary.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Hunley Singleton died at his residence in this city, on last Friday night, in the 48th year of age, of paralysis, having suffered for several weeks. Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Sunday morning by Revs. Leonidas Robinson and T. H. Campbell, and many friends and relatives followed the remains to Lancaster Cemetery. Deceased was well-known, having conducted a meat market here for several years and having also engaged in farming and trading. Some time ago he was Marshal of this town, and he discharged his duties faithfully, displaying courage and a disposition to see the law enforced. For many years he was a leader in the Baptist church. He was a kind husband and father. He carried $2,000 protection in the Knights of the Maccabees, which amount will be paid to his widow and assist in rearing the four bright children who survive him.
